Raynor, Charles	d. 26 Dec 1874		R6/130
Raynor. On Saturday, the 26th instant, after a short but painful illness, Charles Smith, aged 13 months and 9 days, the youngest and beloved son of Smith and Kate Raynor. We lay him down beneath the sod, 'Tis but the form of clay; His soul on airy wings has flown To brighter realms far, far away. In Heaven our Charlie now does dwell, 'Round Christ's eternal throne; He left this land of woe below To seek a blissful home.
Raynor, Edward	d. 16 Jan 1903	84 yrs.	R141/238
Raynor. On Friday, January 16, 1903 at 3 o'clock p.m. after a short illness, Capt. Edward Raynor in the 85th year of his age. Funeral Monday, January 19 at 2:30 p.m. from the residence of his son-in-law, Capt. William H. Davis, 704 H street southwest. Relatives and friends respectfully invited to attend (New York and Baltimore papers please copy). The Evening Star, January 19, 1903, p. 2 Funeral of Capt. Raynor Pythian Rites Over Remains at Congressional Cemetery Funeral services over the remains of Capt. Edward Raynor, who died Friday afternoon of heart failure, were held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the residence of his son-in-law, Capt. William H. Davis, 704 H street southwest. The ceremonies were conducted by Rev. C.C. Meador, pastor of the Fifth Baptist Church, and were largely attended. The officiating pallbearers were chosen from the membership of Harmony Lodge, No. 21, Knights of Pythias. The interment was made in Congressional cemetery. Captain Raynor was well known among the shippers of the Atlantic coast and the Chesapeake bay. He was born in Brooklyn, N.Y., and devoted his younger days to operating coastwise vessels from New York to the Chesapeake bay and its tributaries. When the civil war broke out he sailed to this city, and engaged in a variety of occupations. At the close of the war he engaged in the fishing business and subsequently took up the trade of boat building, which he was compelled to give up a short time ago on account of physical infirmities.
Raynor, Jane	d. 12 Apr 1879	63 yrs.	R13/130
Raynor. On April 12, 1879, in the 64th year of her age, Mrs. Jane Raynor, wife of Martin Raynor (Freeport, Long Island and Harlem papers please copy). A precious one from us has gone, A voice we loved is still; A place is vacant in our home, Which never can be filled. Day after day we saw her fade, And gently sink away; Yet often in our hearts we prayed That she might longer stay.
