Sues For Maintenance

Mrs. Mae C. Reinburg Wants Husband to Support Her

After two unsuccessful attempts to secure an absolute divorce from her husband, Albert L. Reinburg, an employe of the bureau of engraving and printing, Mrs. Mae C. Reinburg today instituted a suit for maintenance against him. She declares he makes $10 a day and spends his money freely, while she and her daughter are in actual want of the ordinary comforts of life.

Mrs. Reinburg says she is threatened with eviction from her apartment for non-payment of rent, and is obliged to ask the court to be allowed to file her suit without a deposit for costs.

She claims she has been deserted by her husband and left in necessitous circumstances when she is entitled to his support.

Attorneys James B. Archer and John Lewis Smith represent the wife.
