Death from a Pistol Shot

Charles N. Stewart, son of Mr. Chas. Stewart, gunner in the navy yard, residing at 311 11th street southeast, who it will be remembered shot himself in the right breast last Christmas eve, died yesterday from the effect of his wound. An erroneous impression was created at that time by a published statement that the young man had attempted to commit suicide in consequence of some unpleasant words with his parents. This has been persistently denied by the sufferer during the time he has been lingering in his bed from sickness occasioned by his wound. He was in the act of drawing a loaded pistol from beneath his bed when the hammer caught, causing its explosion.

Funeral of Gunner Stewart

The remains of Charles Stewart, a gunner of the U.S. navy, who died at Newport, R.I., a few days ago, were brought here yesterday and taken to the Congressional cemetery, where they were this afternoon interred with the masonic rites by Lebanon Lodge, No. 7, F.A.A.M. Mr. Stewart was a native of Maine, 53 years old, and came to this city a few years before the war, where he studied gunnery in the Washington navy yard. He was appointed a gunner in the navy in May, 1859, and in the early part of '61, when on duty at the navy yard, entered the howitzer corps (Co. D, W.L.I.) He was actively engaged during the war, and had seen much service since. He resided with his wife and several children on 11th street east, and was not long since on duty at the navy yard, but some months ago was sent to Newport, and he died there on Wednesday.

Stuart. On Friday, 10th instant, Charles Marshal Stuart, infant son of Frederick M. and Bessie M. Stuart, aged 3 years and 10 months. Relatives and friends are respectfully requested to attend the funeral from his father's residence, 728 4 1/2 street southwest, between G and H, on Sunday, 12th instant, at 3 p.m.

We watch'd his joyous life unfold
 Its new-born beauties day by day
 And never thought that God would take
 Our bright-eyed darling boy away.

Yet he has gone to that bright land
 Where tears shall never dim his eye--
 Where sweeter joys await his s oul
 Than this brief world could e'er supply.

Then, to Thy will, oh, God, we bow,
 And pray Thou wilt our hearts sustain,
 And lead us by Thy loving hand
 Where we may meet our boy again.

Stuart. On Monday morning, at 6:25 o'clock, September 13, 1875, of croup, Effie Mary, aged 2 years 9 months and 13 days, only daughter and child of F.M. and Bessie M Stuart. The friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend the funeral at the residence of her father, 728 4 1/2 street southwest, on tomorrow (Wednesday) afternoon, at 3 o'clock.

A peculiar sadness surrounds little Effie's death, But a few days past her parents consigned their only boy to the silent tomb, and now their home is childless, and their hearts stricken with a two-fold sorrow. In this sad hour of affliction they have the sympathy of all feeling hearts, and the priceless consolation that ere the breath of sin stained their pure souls God called them to the bosom of the Redeemer.

Thou art gone to meet thy brother
 In the spirit realm above
 While angels haste to greet thee
 With songs of endless love.

His enraptured spirit called thee
 From the dark'ning scenes of time,
 To the land of light and beauty,
 Where no sorrow shall be thine.

Where thy songs of joyful triumph
 On Spirit-wing shall fly
 With healing balm for wounded heart,
 To stay the mournful sigh.

"No more pain or sorrow, mother,
 Happy we shall ever be;
 And your children--sister, brother--
 Live in endless ecstasy."

A Friend.

Reported Murder of Fred. Stuart, Jr.

Information was received here this morning from Vandalia, Ill., that the body of a man supposed to be Fred. Stuart, formerly of the U.S. navy, was found in the suburbs of that city a few days ago, and it was supposed he had been murdered. The letter was received by an officer of the navy, and the father of the deceased, Mr. F.D. Stuart, of this city, was apprised of the fact, and has telegraphed for particulars. Mr. Stuart, Jr., was an engineer in the navy during the war, serving for a time on the dispatch steamer Ella, of the Potomac flotilla, and for several years was engineer on the steamer Arrow, plying between Washington and Mount Vernon. He left this city last week on his way to Texas to join a surveying expedition. His father and family are in great distress, and have the sympathy of a host of friends in their affliction.

A Melancholy Mission

Mr. Fred. D. Stuart returned to this city from Vandalia, Ill., this morning, with the body of his son, Fred. D., and had the same conveyed to Congressional cemetery, where it will be privately buried tomorrow. The rumor that he had been murdered was without foundation, as it was established that he died of apoplexy. He was on his way to northwestern Texas, in company with a geological surveying party. He was 34 years of age, and leaves a widow to mourn his loss, but no children. His has been an eventful life for one so young. As long ago as 1853 he went to sea as a master's mate in the U.S. North Pacific exploring expedition. When the war broke out he entered the navy as an engineer, and served as such until it ended. Subsequently he was attached to the Stonewall, which was sold to the Japanese government, and in the capacity of engineer, accompanied that vessel part of the way to Japan. More recently he was employed in the line of his profession as engineer of the steamer Arrow, plying between this city and Mount Vernon. He was a man of affectionate disposition and of remarkable social qualities, and for this reason was a universal favorite with all who knew him. His father (who is well known in this community) and his family have the sympathies of a large class of our citizens.

Death of F.D. Stuart

Mr. Frederick D. Stuart, well and favorably known throughout the country, especially from his connection with the order of Odd Fellows, of which he was Past Grand Sire, died of pneumonia this morning at his residence, No. 802 21st street, in the 64th year of his age, after an illness of one week. Mr. Stuart's wife died on the 11th instant of the same disease (pneumonia), and was buried on the 16th instant, and it is thought that Mr. Stuart took the cold which led to his fatal illness at her funeral. On Thursday week (the 17th instant) Mr. Stuart was at the Washington monument office for a short time, on the evening of that day was taken with a chill, and after that was unable to leave his bed.

Mr. Stuart was a native of Brooklyn, New York, but early in life came to Washington and always afterwards resided here, when not absent in the service of the government. His education was for the profession of civil engineer, but he was somewhat of an astronomer and a fair draftsman and architect, and was generally a well-informed man. Mr. Stuart was the private secretary of Admiral Wilkes when he, in the years 1839 to 1841 explored a large portion of the Antarctic continent, before unknown. After the return of the expedition to the United States, Mr. Stuart was for years secretary to Admiral Wilkes. In 1853 he went with Capt. Ringgold's exploring expedition to Behring's straits as hydrographer. During the late war, Mr. Stuart saw considerable service. In July 1862, as acting master, he went on duty in the West India squadron under Admiral Wilkes, and in August 1863, after having spent two months "waiting orders," he took command of the U.S. steamer Calypso, and off the coast of North Carolina took on one of the most valuable prizes captured during the war – the blockade runner, Lady Sterling – which was converted into a U.S. war vessel and named the Hornet. In November, 1864, he was promoted acting volunteer lieutenant, and in June 1865, he was placed in command of the captured blockade runner Emma Henry, whose name was changed to the Wasp, and in July of that year he was ordered to the Washington Navy Yard, where he remained until October, and then, after a leave of absence until February 1866, he was honorably discharged from the service.

Mr. Stuart was ever a friend of popular education, and served as a trustee of public schools of this city both in the first and third districts, in each devoting a great amount of time to visiting the schools, and when he was forced by circumstances to resign that position, there was universal regret among pupils and teachers. June 19, 1875, Mr. Stuart was appointed one of the board of managers of the National Washington Monument

Society, and his most valuable service in this connection after the board of engineers had examined and reported that one of the corners had settled, was in making it apparent to the board and the public that the engineer had taken the wrong bench mark. Mr. Stuart was a member of the Oldest Inhabitants Association.

Mr. Stuart was initiated a member of Friendship Lodge, No. 12, Independent Order of Odd Fellows', October 24, 1844, and was elected Noble Grand of that Lodge, April 21, 1846. He was admitted to the Grand Lodge of the District of Columbia, July 13, 1846, and was elected Grand Master, November 29, 1848 and Representative to the Grand Lodge of the United States, November 11, 1850. He was initiated a member of Mount Pisgah Encampment (now defunct) August 12, 1845 and at the institution of Ridgely Encampment, No. 5, October 9, 1846, was selected as its first Chief Patriarch; was admitted to the Grand Encampment February 6, 1847 and elected Grand Patriarch, August 10, 1852, and representative to G.L.U.S., August 30, 1850. He was Deputy Grand Sire of G.L.U.S. from 1868 to 1870 and Grand Sire from 1870 to 1872. He was selected as special commissioner to British North American and Canada East in 1867.

He also belonged to Hermoine Lodge, Knights of Pythias, having been made a Knight on sight in California in 1869 by Samuel Read, the then Supreme Chancellor of the Supreme Lodge of the World, and was made a Past Grand Chancellor by the Grand Lodge of the District.

The Late F.D. Stuart

Last evening the Grand Lodge and Grand Encampment of Odd Fellows held meetings at the 7th street hall to take action in reference to the death of the late Past Grand Sire Frederick D. Stuart, and adopted resolutions in respect to his memory. At the special meeting of the Grand Lodge resolutions were adopted making arrangements for the funeral, inviting the lodge of Maryland and Virginia to attend the same, and directing the hall to be placed in mourning, and that the remains lie in state from 9 to 1 ½ o'clock tomorrow, in the main saloon. At the meeting of the Grand Encampment feeling remarks were made by Messrs. Joseph Burroughs, Grand Sire John W. Stokes of Philadelphia, John T. Given, Alex. Ashley, W.R. McLean, John E. Mason, Alfred H. Gawler, John F. Havenner, Samuel E. Douglass, and P.H. Reinohl. It is expected that the officers and many members of the Grand Lodge and Grand Encampment of Maryland and many of the subordinate bodies will attend the funeral. Last evening the Uniformed Patriarchs association of Baltimore made arrangements to come over, and they expect to arrive here by the B&P R.R. at 11:25 o'clock. It is more than likely the Alexandria lodges I.O.O.F. will be present. The remains have been deposited in a walnut casket covered with black cloth, lined with white merino, and trimmed with silver. On the lid are two massive silver plates; one at the head of the casket, oval, and engraved as follows: The letters "I.O.O.F.," Odd Fellows' emblems and the words "Past Grand Sire." The other plate about midway between the head and the foot, is indicated as follows: "Frederick D. Stuart, born July 12, 1814; died January 25, 1878." The Washington National Monument Society met today at the judge advocate general's office, and adopted resolutions of respect to their fellow member, F.D. Stuart. Kit Carson Post, G.A.R. last night adopted similar resolutions.

The Late F.D. Stuart – The following letter from the venerable and beloved James L. Ridgely, grand secretary, etc., relating to the recent loss of esteemed fellow-citizen, Fred. D. Stuart will be read with wide interest:

Officer Grand Corresponding and Recording Secretary, R.W.G.L.U.S

Baltimore, Md., January 27, 1878

To Bros. John T. Given, John F. Havenner, and William R. McLean, Representatives of Jurisdiction of District of Columbia

My Dear Brethren:

I regret that my infirmities prevent my presence at the obsequies today of our departed friend, to mingle my sorrows and tears with my brethren at the taking off of so noble a spirit. But your ceremonial today buries only the casket: Frederick D. Stuart survives, and will survive, not only enshrined in immortality of bliss, but in the heart and memory of his brethren. Peace be to his remains. Like his worthy compeers gone to the better land, Kennedy, Ellison and Porter, worthy fruits of our noble order! By these fruits shall the tree be judged. I present my profound condolence to the brethren and family. Farewell, beloved friend.

Your sorrowing brother,

Jas. L. Ridgely, C.S.

Funeral of Frederick D. Stuart

Yesterday afternoon the funeral of the late F.D. Stuart, Past Grand Sire of the Order of Odd Fellows, took place from the hall on 7th street, was attended by one of the largest gatherings of people ever assembled on a similar occasion in Washington. In the morning the remains were escorted by Friendship Lodge and Ridgely

Encampment to the hall and were laid in state at the east end of the hall, in charge of a guard of honor of Uniformed Patriarchs. The casket was covered with rich floral tributes. During the morning delegations arrived from various places, the Uniformed Patriarchs of Baltimore, numbering about 60, reaching the hall about 11 o'clock. From 9 o'clock a.m. up to the hour of the funeral there was a continuous stream of the friends of the deceased to take a last look at the remains. At 2 o'clock the family and immediate friends of the deceased entered the hall, taking seats on the left, the Odd Fellows' choir taking a position on the right; near the head of the corpse, on an improvised stand, Rev. Parker H. Sweet, as grand chaplain; Rev. George Taylor, grand chaplain of Michigan; Rev. Dr. A.H. Ames of McKendree chapel, who was with deceased on the Ringgold expedition, and Rev. J.D. Elliott, who was chaplain on the Wilkes expedition, took seats, while the body of the hall was filled with Odd Fellows and members of the Monument society, and Oldest Inhabitants' association. Among the visiting distinguished Odd Fellows present were Theodore A. Ross, assistant grand secretary; Hon. Joshua Vansant, grand treasurer; John Chamberlain, grand messenger, of the Grand Lodge of the United States; Chas. H. Rawlings and Henry F. Garey, grand representatives; John A. Thompson and B.F. Zimmerman, past grand masters; Joshua Lynch, grand master; J.W. Minifee, grand warden; John M. Jones, grand secretary, and C.H. Patch, grand marshal of Maryland; Hon. J.M. Campbell, past grand master; M.R. Muckle, grand treasurer; Geo. F. Lewis, past grand, and John Nicholson, past grand marshal of Pennsylvania; James S. Kiger, grand master; Lewis Parker, Jr., grand secretary, and A. Frank Caril, assistant grand secretary of New Jersey; Hon. Leonidas Sexton, past grand master of Indiana; Hon. J.C. Hemingray, grand master of Utah; Mrs. James L. Ridgely, Mrs. M.J. Dunham and Mrs. T.A. Ross.

The Exercises were opened by the choir singing "Hear Our Prayer," (by Ryder), Rev. Mr. Sweet read 1 Corinthians, xv., and Rev. George Taylor offered a prayer., Short addresses by Rev. Messrs. Sweet, Ames and Elliot followed. Dr. Ames offered a prayer, and the choir sang "Only Waiting," (by Ginniss), and the services concluded with a benediction by Mr. Sweet. The casket was removed to the hearse by body bearers – Thos. Greer, Wm. Davis, T. Anderson, of Ridgely Encampment, T. Oliver, C. Thomas, A. Grimm, of Friendship Lodge – preceded by the following bearers: Past Grand Sire William W. Moore of the District; Grand Sire John W. Stokes, Grand Lodge U.S.; Past Grand Sire James B. Nicholson of Pennsylvania; Past Grand Sire M.J. Durham of Kentucky; Past Grand Sire Thomas Sherlock of Ohio; P. Grand Representative Hugh Latham of Virginia; and Dr. John B. Blake of the Washington Monument Society and Oldest Inhabitants Association.

The Procession formed as follows:

Honors to the Memory of the Late F.D. Stuart

A meeting was held in the room of Friendship Lodge, No. 12, I.O.O.F., (Pa. ave. and 19th street,) last evening, to commemorate the life and services of the late F.D. Stuart--a member of the lodge and a Past Grand Sire of member of the lodge and a Past Grand Sire of the order. There was a large attendance of the membership, with many ladies. In front of the N.G.'s chair there were arranged, on a stand a floral pillow, from the President, who is a member of Lodge No. 99, Columbus, Ohio. This was composed of japonicas, coronation pinks, violets, azaleas, primroses and lilies of the valley, and with the violets the letters, F.D.S., the three links, and P.G.S. were formed. Above this was an anchor, in flowers, presented by some of the members, the framed resolutions of the lodge adopted in respect to his memory, a fine oil painting of the deceased, and the motto, "Sweet Rest in Heaven." Past Grand A.H. Gawler called the meeting to order, and Grand Secretary P.H. Sweet offered prayer. Past Grand Gawler made a feeling address. Under the lead of Mr. John B. Hines "Friend after Friend Departs," was sung by a select choir. Rev. Mr. Sweet offered a resolution, which was adopted, referring to "the high character of the late Past Grand Sire, F.D. Stuart, the unselfish and untiring supporter of works for others good; the generous benefactor of his race; the disinterested friend; the true man, whose work can be found on every page of our ritual; whose mature judgment and fore-thought have helped to place Odd Fellowship where it is today," etc. Past Grand D.C. Reinohl followed with an address on the services of the deceased to the lodge and to the order, and his visitations to the sick and afflicted. Incidentally he referred to his services to his country, (as an officer of the navy), and to his habit when at sea of assembling the Odd Fellows on his vessel in his cabin on Thursday evenings to keep up the remembrances of the past. Grand Representative John F. Havenner followed in a sketch of the services of Mr. Stuart in the Grand Lodge of the District, paying a graceful tribute to his memory. Hon. M.J. Durham (Past Grand Sire) made some feeling remarks, as also did Past Grand Master Samuel E. Douglas, who spoke of Mr. Stuart as a neighbor and citizen, referring particularly to his services as a school trustee and a member of the Washington Monument Society. The exercises were closed by singing the "Sweet By and By," the audience joining in the chorus.

The Proposed Monument to F.D. Stuart

The joint committee of the various organizations of Odd Fellows on the monument to be erected to the memory of the late F.D. Stuart, who was Past Grand Sire of the order, have had three models presented to them, but they have not as yet decided which one to adopt. One of these is by Heany, who proposes a structure 18 feet high and 5 feet base. The latter of granite, and the rest of the monument of Italian marble. On the die is a representation of Rebekah at the well, above which are the "clasped hands" and three links" and other front of the shaft crossed crooks and an urn with flame, surmounts the whole. Mr Jouvenal furnished two models, and proposes to erect each 17 feet in height, with granite base of 4 1/2 feet. On the die of each is a profile of the deceased. In one three columns support the shaft. In the other the shaft is a bundle of rods, and on the top is a tent, with crossed crooks protruding.

The Evening Star, March 29, 1881

It is proposed by the Odd Fellows to dedicate the monument to the late Frederick P. Stuart in the Congressional Cemetery during the anniversary celebration of the order on the 26th of April.

The Evening Star, May 14, 1881

The Monument to Fred D. Stuart

It was intended to have the monument to the memory of the late Frederick D. Stuart ready for dedication on Decoration Day (May 30th), but the work on it cannot be finished by that date. It is being cut in the marble yard of Mr. William Rutherford, who contracted for it, and will be erected over Mr. Stuart's grave in the Congressional Cemetery. On the die will be sculptured representations of "Jonathan and David," and "Rebekah at the Well," the scales of justice, the bundle of rods, signifying union, the three links, the All Seeing Eye, the tent and shepherd's crooks, and suitable inscriptions will also appear on it. The work on it thus far gives evidence that it will be equal, when finished to any monument now in our cemeteries. The Grand Encampment of Patriarchs held a meeting last night to make arrangements for its dedication, but receiving a letter from Mr. Rutherford stating, that to do full justice to the work it would probably not be ready by the 30th inst., no action was taken.

The Evening Star, June 19, 1872

The Portrait of Most Worthy Grand Sire, Fred. D. Stuart, I.O.O.F., was presented to the order by Mr. James L. Ridgely, grand corresponding and recording secretary of the Grand Lodge of the United States, at Odd Fellows' hall, 7th street, last evening, in the presence of a large number of members and their families and friends. The portrait was accepted on behalf of the order, in an appropriate address, by W.W. Moore, Past Grand Sire. Mr. Theodore Kauffmann, the artist, was introduced, and was greeted with prolonged applause. Grand Sire F.D. Stuart was next introduced, and in a few fitting words thanked his brethren for the honor they had conferred upon him. During the evening several odes were sung by the audience. The Odd Fellows' choir sang a chorus entitled, "Awake Aeolian Lyre," which was loudly applauded."

The Evening Star, December 16, 1870

Fred. D. Stuart, Grand Sire of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, instituted Mount Royal Lodge, at Montreal, Canada, on Tuesday evening last. Mr. Stuart will return to his home in this city in a few days, preparatory to a mission through the Southern States in the interest of the fraternity. A dispensation has been granted for a Lodge at Culpepper Court House, Va., and it will be instituted by Mr. Stuart.

The Evening Star, July 20, 1870

Mr. F.D. Stuart of this city, Deputy Grand Sire of Odd Fellows last evening returned from quite an extensive trip in the Southern States. Fred is looking remarkably well.

The United States Exploring Expedition of 1838-42 is a milestone in American science. Often referred to as the Wilkes Expedition, this expedition brought back to the United States a wealth of geological, botanical, zoological, anthropological and other materials which created a foundation upon which much of American science was formed. At least three of the scientists involved with the expedition gained international acclaim from their efforts.

The expedition was authorized by Congress in response to popular demand. Investigations were carried on in widely separated areas of the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans including Brazil, Tierra del Fuego, Antarctica, Chile, Australia, New Zealand, the west coast of North America, the Philippines and the East Indies. The two penetrations into Antarctic waters were in February and March 1839, and January and February of 1840. Even though the Antarctic portion of the expedition was part of a larger plan in the Pacific, major accomplishments were gained. Wilkes sighted land on several occasions as he sailed along the edge of the ice pack south of Australia for some 1500 miles. Thus, Wilkes was the first to provide proof of the existence of an Antarctic continent.

We have the painful duty to perform of announcing the decease of our venerable fellow citizen, General Philip Stuart, a distinguished officer of the Revolutionary Army. General S. was a native of the State of Maryland, in whose gallant line it was that his bravery was signalized during the whole of its severe service in the South, particularly in the battle of Eutaw. During the late war he again served his country in the field, and also for several years represented his native State in Congress. During the last twelve years of his life, he resided in this city, where he expired on Saturday evening, the 14th inst. after a short illness. He was, we believe, almost the last relic of the Revolutionary worthies in our immediate community, and we should think it a proper tribute of respect to his memory, for our military companies to unite in paying the honors of war to his remains, at their interment today.

Deaths:

On Saturday evening, the 14th instant, a little before 8 o'clock, at his late residence in this city, Gen. Philip Stuart, in the 71st year of his age. This truly worthy and excellent citizen and soldier filled too large and bright a space in the public affairs of his country to need any verbal eulogium. His fame for valor and patriotism belongs to the history of the country; and his worth is imperishably recorded in the hearts of a widely extended circle of friends and acquaintances. Yet we cannot forbear invoking the kind sympathies of a generous and grateful people to the grave of a venerable and distinguished Patriot; whose youthful blood was shed in copious libations for their ransom in the time of the Revolution, and whose heart retained sufficient fire in his old age to call him to the tented field in another war, ready to lay down his life in defense of that freedom which in young blood had contributed to purchase.

All the friends and acquaintances of the deceased, and all others disposed to honor the memory of the departed Patriot, are frankly invited to attend his funeral, which will proceed from the late family residence at Greenleaf's Point, at 3 o'clock tomorrow, 17th inst., p.m.

Will of Gen. Philip Stuart, of Washington, D.C., late of Charles Co., Md. (dtd. April 7, 1827, probated Aug. 25, 1830, Will Book ??)

All real and personal property to five youngest children; sons Richard Henry Stuart, Joseph Noble Stuart, John Philip Stuart, George Washington Stuart (under age), and Edward Eutaw Stuart (under age), to each 1/5.

Three eldest children Charles Baynes Stuart, William Gibbons Stuart, and daughter Mary Frances Adeline Stuart, now Mary Frances Adeline Thornton, wife of Steuart Gibbons Thornton, Esq., of Va.; to Charles Baynes Stuart my large china punch bowl once the property of Gen. George Washington of "Mount Vernon;" to grandson Philip Stuart Thornton, my gold watch; to son Richard Henry [Stuart] the pistols and sword with their necessary apparatus which I used during the Revolutionary War and which were especially my companions at the Battle of Eutaw, being confident as he is an officer in the army of the U.S.

William M. Stuart, 81, Washington Post Stamp Editor

William M. Stuart, former Massachusetts newspaperman and politician and for nearly 20 years stamp editor of the Washington Post, died yesterday at George Washington University Hospital after a brief illness. He was 81.

A native of Lawrence, Mass., he served as chairman and secretary of the Republican City Committee there more than 50 years ago. He also served a three-year term as associate commissioner of Essex County, Mass.

He was editor at various times of three newspapers in his native city and had been associated with the Boston Record and Advertiser.

Came Here in 1905

Mr. Stuart left the latter paper in 1905 to come to Washington and was first appointed to a position in the office of the secretary of the Senate.

He was assistant journal clerk of the Senate during the administrations of President Taft and President Wilson.

He had always been interested in stamp collecting and while here began a collection of autographs of famous men and women. He once ran a clipping serve and for many years collected clippings for the Folger Library. He joined the Post as Stamp editor in 1933.

Wife Killed in Crash

Mr. Stuart's wife, Mrs. Sarah K. Stuart, was killed last May in a traffic accident here. For years the couple attended the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church.

He was a member of the American Philatelic Society, the Society of Philatelic Americans, the American Air Mail Society and several other philatelic groups.
