

Name	Birth/Death	Age	Range/Site
Triepel, Charles F. Triepel. Suddenly on January 26, 1909 Charles F. Triepel, youngest and beloved son of Mrs. E.M.V. Triepel. Funeral from his late residence, 2516 17th street northwest, Friday, January 29, 2 p.m. Interment in Congressional Cemetery. The Evening Star, January 27, 1909 Loses His Life by Drowning Charles Triepel Goes Beneath Ice on a Pond Little Dog Returns Home Apparently Distressed Members of Police Force Recover Body A fox terrier belonging to Charles Triepel, a Western High School boy, entered his master's house, 2516 17th street, late yesterday afternoon dripping wet, with muddy feet and whining as if he had been whipped. He acted so queerly that Charles' mother became alarmed. Later, when her son did not return to dinner she was extremely worried. It was the first time the boy had missed a meal at home in his life. The harbor police found his body this morning under the ice of a skating pond near the western end of the bridge, the other end of which is at the Chevy Chase street car loop. Charles was very fond of skating and as there has not been very much ice this winter he made frequent explorations to find good ponds. He probably walked across the bridge with his dog soon after school was out yesterday, and seeing the ice on the pond below him went down to investigate. The ice near the edges of the pond looked safe, and he ventured out, but he had not gone more than twelve feet when it cracked. Perhaps he slipped, and the impact of the fall broke the ice. The water of the pond is quite deep--at least nine feet--and when Charles found himself submerged there was no foothold beneath him. Wore Heavy Overcoat He wore a heavy overcoat, and there was hardly a chance for him to save himself. He could not move freely, and the icy water benumbed his arms and legs. It is probable that he threw his arms out on the ice in an effort to pull himself from the water. His handkerchief, found on the edge of the hole, might have been used to help get a grip on the slippery edges. Charles' half brother, Bogart Triepel, searched for him last night. Knowing that the boy was fond of skating, he began this morning a systematic search of the skating places where Charles was known to go. It was Bogart who found the cap and handkerchief lying beside the hole in the ice. He called up the tenth precinct and told the desk sergeant. The later notified the harbor police. They took a small flatboat in a wagon to the pond, pushed it out on the ice, and after a short search found the body. Pond in Deep Gully The pond is in a deep gully, and it was a difficult matter to get the boat and the body out, but a large crowd had assembled and helped the police. The coroner had to be notified, and he quickly made out a certificate of accidental drowning. Charles Triepel's mother is Mrs. Emma M.V. Triepel, librarian of the Treasury Department. Her husband died nine years ago. Charles would have graduated next year. Miss Edith Westcott, principal of the Western High School, knew him well and was deeply affected by the news of his death. "He was a fine boy," she said, "and he was a good student. We just finished his report for the half year ending this week. He never had a failure during his whole career in this school, and he stood highest in his class." The Evening Star, January 28, 1909, p. 4 Funeral of Drowned Boy Funeral services over the remains of Charles Triepel, sixteen years of age, who was drowned Tuesday evening in a pond near the Chevy Chase Bridge across Rock Creek, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow morning at his late home, 2516 17th street northwest. The services will be conducted by Rev. George F. Dudley, rector of St. Stephen's P.E. Church, of which the deceased was a member. Interment will be made in Congressional cemetery. As yet the pallbearers have not been selected.	b. 1892 - d. 26 Jan 1909	17 yrs.	R132/223

Triepel, B.S. Emma M.V.	b. 1866 - d. 9 Jan 1943	77 yrs.	R132/223
--------------------------------	-------------------------	---------	-----------------

Triepel. On Saturday, January 9, 1943, at her residence, 3439 Mount Pleasant st. n.w., Emma M.V. Triepel, beloved mother of Lt. Comdr. William V. Cash, U.S.N.R.; sister of William E. Vaughan of Washington, D.C., and Mrs. Claudia Ness of Baltimore, Md. Remains resting at the S.H. Hines Co. funeral home. 2901 14th st. n.w. Funeral services at St. Stephens of Incarnation Church, 16th and Center sts. n.w., on Tuesday, January 12 at 2 p.m. Friends invited. Interment (private) Congressional cemetery.

The Washington Evening Star, Monday, January 11, 1943

Pen Women to Attend Funeral Services for Mrs. Emma Triepel

Former Treasury Librarian Who Helped Found Group To Be Buried Tomorrow

Mrs. Emma E.M.V. Triepel, 76, retired librarian of the Treasury Department, said to be the last surviving founder of the National League of American Pen Women, who died Saturday at her home, 3429 Mount Pleasant street, N.W., will be buried tomorrow in Congressional Cemetery.

The burial will be private, following funeral services at 2 p.m. in St. Stephen's and the Incarnation Episcopal Church. Members of the Executive Board of the National League of American Pen Women and of the District of Columbia branch of the league are to attend the church services.

Mrs. Triepel was appointed librarian of the Treasury Department in 1905 and continued in that position until retired in 1933. For nearly 25 years she prepared a daily summary of news relative to the Treasury Department which was distributed to Government officials.

Wrote for Magazines

At the time of her death, Mrs. Triepel was fifth vice president of the National League of American Pen Women and a member of the District branch.

For many years she was a contributor to the Scientific American, Science News and Seismograph. She also wrote folklore and Negro dialect stories for household magazines and shortly before her death was writing memoirs which she had titled "Tales of a Gatesville Road."

Born in Elizabeth City, N.C., December 16, 1866, the daughter of Judge William E. Vaughan of the Pasquotank County Probate Court, and Mrs. Vaughan, she was educated in the public schools of that section, and taught school there for some years. Twice married, and twice widowed, while still a comparatively young woman, she turned her attention to acquiring a college degree, and about 1910 was graduated from the George Washington University with a bachelor of science degree.

Descendant of Pioneers

Mrs. Triepel traced her family in direct descent from Capt. Francis Mason who settled in Virginia in 1613, and from Gen. Thomas Mathews of Revolutionary War fame. She was a member of the Emily Nelson Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution; Stonewall Jackson Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy; the Col. William Branthwayth Chapter, Colonial Dames of the Seventeenth Century, and the Esther Chapter of the Eastern Star.

She is survived by her son, Lt. Comdr. William Bogart Vaughan Cash, U.S.N.R., on active duty in Washington; a sister, Mrs. Claudia Ness of Baltimore, and her brother, William E. Vaughan of this city.

The Evening Star, May 31, 1908, p. 10

Degrees For Women

Thirteen to Graduate This Year From G.W.U.

A Big Collegiate Class

General Average in Studies Exceptionally High

Commencement Held June 3

Bachelors of Science

...

The other bachelor of science in the list of women graduates for 1908 is Mrs. Emma Matthews Vaughn Triepel, a representative in the class from North Carolina. Mrs. Triepel was born in Elizabeth City, but resides now in Washington, where she is employed as librarian of the Treasury. Mrs. Triepel is the daughter of William E. Vaughn, probate judge of Pasquotank County, N.C. She graduated several years ago from the Oxford Female Seminary, North Carolina. She has a record in college, notwithstanding her arduous employment in other work during the day, and is especially interested in history, zoology, and English. She is also a musician, Mrs. Triepel is a member of Columbian Women and is a Daughter of the American Revolution.

...