The Evening Star, May 14, 1863
Obituary--died in this city, on the 11th inst., after a protracted illness, which she endeavored, patiently to bear, Elizabeth Willis, aged 80 years. She was a native of Petersburg, Va., but for the last fifty years a resident of Washington City, D.C. Her hand was ever ready to relieve the distressed, and when disease prevailed she was among the first to profer assistance, and the orphan particularly received her blessing. Many learned to love her as a mother and willingly sought her counsel. In her last moments she was faithfully attended and breathed her last surrounded by both children, grand children and great grand children. Oh! how her aged form will be missed in the family circle, for the little ones will think of grandma and sigh because they can see her face no more. Peace to her ashes! She was a good woman and her name will live in the hearts of many.
A Friend.
